

Vidya joins Springboard, a digital learning initiative from Infosys

MS REMYA P C

MS SHALITHA K K

Springboard is Infosys' digital skilling programme powered by their Wingspan platform which is aimed at everyone from a standard six student to a professional. The aim is to provide reskilling for more than 10 million people by the year 2025.

Vidya is an academic member of this digital initiative which provides a plethora of open and free courses for reskilling. The service is available at their website or as an app that could be downloaded from Google's Play store or from Apple's App Store.

One new feature of the Springboard programme is that an academic institution can create their own microsite and offer courses and content exclusively for their faculty and students. On 2 September 2021, the initial version of the microsite for Vidya was released. The microsite was created by our own faculty members from the Computer Science Engineering Department – Ms Remya P C and Ms Shalitha K K. The microsite of Vidya can be accessed at the following link HERE.
